

Books

Part 1:

1. Do you like reading?

Yes, I'm definitely a bibliophile. I believe that books are the best source for gaining more knowledge. People who read regularly tend to have a more affluent vocabulary and a higher level of general knowledge, therefore, they have more to discuss and are more engaging to listen to.

2. Do you read e-books?

The answer is yes without a doubt. Because of their portability, electronic books are a huge temptation for me. When I'm walking or moving on a means of public transport, I like to pull out my smartphone and read one of my favourite books right there.

3. What kind of books do you like to read?

I love reading anything that falls under Self-help and Biographies. I mean authors like Jay Shetty, James Clear and Joseph Murphy. I can't get enough of The Power of your Subconscious Mind!

4. What was your favourite book as a child?

I remember being very fond of a book called "Atomic Habits". Using a four-step process, Atomic Habits demonstrates how even seemingly insignificant adjustments to your daily routine may have a profoundly positive impact over time.

5. Have you lent books to others?

I do think that sometimes. Friends of mine who share my love of reading and are always looking to make book trades. In return for comic books, my closest comrades frequently borrow my books to read in my spare time.

6. Have you borrowed books from others?

As I've already mentioned, many of my closest friends are avid readers. Because of this, I frequently borrow books from friends in order to pass the time on days off or while waiting for a connection when I need to catch up on my reading.

7. Do you read professional books?

In the past during my university years, I had to say I was a bookworm and purchased programming and computer-related books every week to enhance my expertise in that field. Right now, I'm in over my head with work so it is not possible for me to read professional books now.

Part 2:

Describe an exciting book that you enjoy reading

Introduction:

Books are a vital part of my life. I have faced several problems in my life. Books helped me to get through it.

There is a widely popular quote called 'Readers are leaders', for me it is true. Books act as a guiding compass.

I would like to talk about the book which describes the life of APJ Abdul Kalam.

When you read it ? And What kind of book is it ?

The name of the book is Wings of fire

It is the autobiography of APJ Abdul Kalam, where he wrote about his early life experiences and his work experiences in Indian space research and Indian missile programs.

It is really an inspirational book for many students and people. It motivates people to turn their dreams into reality.

I read this book when I was in 11th grade in school, which was recommended by my favourite teacher. I owe this book a lot as it transformed me into a better person.

What is it about?

This book describes how the young boy who was born in a middle class family becomes a notable person in Indian space research and Indian missile programs and the President of India after a series of falls and odds.

It covers all the information about how he was during his childhood, schooling, career and things he achieved.

And explain why you think it is exciting ?

I was always amazed by the figure of APJ Abdul Kalam and this book satisfied my curiosity and also inspired me well to achieve things that I considered impossible.

Part 3:

1. Do you generally read a lot of books or do you prefer watching TV? Why?

Answer: I prefer reading books as TV programs don't offer any good content nowadays.

Every book offers us some new information and a chance to dive into a new world. I mostly find many books interesting and keep me engaged. This is why I prefer reading books to watching TV.

2. What kind of books are considered good reads in your opinion?

Answer: I feel books that give you information or entertainment are good reads. Books should improve the thinking capacity of the readers and have a positive impact on their lives. Else books should be able to entertain the readers with good content like stories or poems.

3. Do you think that people read nowadays as they did in the past?

Answer: People long back had only books or newspapers to read. When the internet was invented, people slowly shifted to reading many things online. These days the younger generation prefers to read using computers and smartphones. There are several reading apps available that store a lot of books so it is easy to carry anywhere.

4. Do you regard famous writers as good role models?

Answer: Writers are better role models than politicians or actors. Writers have contributed a lot of changes to society by expressing their opinions and criticising people. Many writers and their works have become a discussion in society. Writers have inspired people over generations as their works never die.
